

TOOLBOX TALK

CONSTRUCTION AND SUICIDE

You know the dangers that come from working on a job site, we talk about them often during Toolbox Talks, but what about those that lurk when you're off the job?

Suicide is an unfortunate crisis within our industry, and it is time to change that.

BY THE NUMBERS

- In multiple years, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention found construction and extraction was the no. 1 occupational group with male suicides.
- In the general population, suicide occurs in 14.21 out of every 100,000 people. In construction, the number is closer to 56 suicides per 100,000 workers.
- In the U.S., there are approximately 134 suicides per day which breaks down to one death every 11 minutes. (CDC)

WHY IT MATTERS

September is Suicide Awareness Month, and Sept. 8-12 is Construction Suicide Prevention Week, so we want to do everything in our power to help save our fellow teammates. Throughout, we'll be sharing tools and resources to stamp out the stigma of asking for help, and possibly help save some lives in the meantime.

GOOD TO KNOW
